EQUIPMENT ROOM

If you're thinking about enrolling in The University of North Texas, Media Arts Degree program now is the right time.

If your dream is to learn what it takes to be a filmmaker, director, gaffer, postproduction audio engineer, or any one of the many behind-the-scenes jobs in the filmmaking process, the Media Arts Department is where you want to be.

By investing in UNT, you're investing in yourself, and the Media Arts Department is investing in you and your dreams.

Not only are you provided with higher level education from Professors that have and are still heavily involved in the film making process, but Department of Media Arts students also receive hands on training with standard industry equipment.

The Media Arts Equipment Room is equipped with products from Scarlet Red, Panasonic, Canon, Sony, Blackmagic Design, Aputure, and Sound Devices, all maintained to ensure you receive the best educational training possible.

Compare UNT's Media Arts Department to any other film-making school in the state of Texas or the nation, higher education is achieved here.

Check out some of the film gear that's waiting for you when you get here.
